A Friend in Need

"But there's no bread in the house for breakfast and the stores are all closed for the night!" protested Ann Brinkly in dismay.

Her husband had telephoned late that an important business acquaintance was coming for the night.

"Then have muffins," suggested
Tom, cheerfully resourceful.

"Tom Brinkly, you know I never have luck with muffins," groaned Ann.
She hung up the receiver and turned to young Mrs. Eaton. "I don't know why I can't make good muffins. Barbara, I like them just as much as Tom does, but somehow mine are never successful. And how I hate to get up earlier to make them!"

"Why not mix them tonight and bake them tomorrow morning?" said Barbara calmly. Ann looked at her in amazement. "Have you any Ryzon Baking Powder?" inquired Barbara, getting up briskly. "because if you have Ryzon you can get the muffins all ready now. The batter will be perfectly good tomorrow if you stand it in a cool place."

As Ann still looked incredulous, Barbara continued: "Oh, really, I often do it myself. And you needn't worry about the muffins turning out right. Since I used Ryzon I haven't had a single baking failure. And if you follow directions you can bake just exactly as well."

The new Ryzon Baking Book (original price $1.00), containing 250 practical recipes, will be mailed, postpaid, upon receipt of 30 cents in stamps or

Special Steels add Life to the
MAXWELL

These steels are the product of the highly developed Maxwell laboratories, where steels have been studied, analyzed and tested for years.

They are made to Maxwell's own formulae and enable the Maxwell to stand punishment that few cars can meet successfully.

They lessen the task of the engine and make it more responsive, quicker in action and a delight to handle.

These are some of the virtues which have won friends for the Maxwell in ever increasing numbers and give it a longer life than many cars of higher price.

Today there are approximately 400,000 Maxwell's on the world's highways. The year 1920 will add 100,000 more.

Puncture-Proof with Every Cord-Quality

LEE Cord Puncture-Proofs are the only Leord tires that can win an argument with steel.

Let the thinnest, toughest, sharpest nail or stoutest spike try to pierce the triple thickness of steel discs. They cannot pass. Your tube is safe. The cord construction is uninjured. Not a cord cut or weakened, for the steel discs are placed between the cords and the tread.

For eighteen months Lee Cord Puncture-Proofs were subjected to the severest tests before being offered to the public. They were everything that a cord tire should be—not a single cord quality had been sacrificed to make them puncture-proof.

Let us show you the quality and construction of this remarkable tire.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

LINDSEY DECIDES AUNT CECILIA WON'T NEED THAT STUDIO.

Bricky, dear creature, had come to ask me to go to a matinee with him, and you know that I actually hesitated. Somehow or other, I felt his unpopularity in the air. You know how you get those dislike waves, if you are at all psychic, which I am. But my stronger nature arose within me and I remembered my determination never to be bound down ever, so of course accepted.

But oh, the depth of my gentle Aunt Cecilia! She pined, out clearly and unblushingly. "Why, Lindsey, you know you are to go along to luncheon with Jeffery and me, honey, and then we can have seats for the theater ourselves after that, dear! Inherent courtesy would not permit me to turn on her and say, 'why, Aunt Cecilia, no such thing,' etc., so I held my peace, understanding that for some reason or other Aunt wanted me to go with her and not with Bricky. And not long afterwards that sunny young person died along. My aunt is clever, you'll acknowledge.

When Bricky had gone I looked at her very closely and asked her why she had stooped to such a thing as inventing this story about our having an engagement and all that. It didn't worry her one bit for she assured me that she had acted on impulse and for the best. I saw Jeffery smile behind his mustache and realized that he must be enjoying it all very much—Aunt Cecilia trying to save me from her own bitter experience of the past.

Of course there was nothing else to do but to go out to lunch with them, and we adjourned to a nearby hotel and had a jolly time. I felt that Aunt Cecilia is not going to want that studio she has yearned for so many years—and talks so much about now. It may be all wrong of course, but my feminine intuition very rarely fails me, so just wait and see.

You see we are descendants of a most conservative family, after all, and blood will out, so will centuries of refinement and suppressions. It's my firm belief that only if developed in extreme youth will any real graving and artistic talents endure with any of us. We have been wives and mothers, the women of my race, for so many generations that it will take superhuman defiance and determination, on my part even, to stay an artist in spite of everything. If you know what I mean.

Hence my deduction about Aunt Cecilia. If she had stuck at her painting all through the years she'd have been at a point now when not even love could have weaned her away from the brush. As it is, alas, I fear the worst; namely that she is going to adore being just a plain wife and find more delight in taking care of her man and fussing about the home than in any art. Mark my words.

A female who can calmly plan out luncheon sets to the last detail and the exact sort of table linen that she wants for her home is not going to have a deep interest in color outside of the color to be found in any nice home! Take it from me. And, oh, dear me, how wild she does get when I even hint at this treachery on her part. "Desert her beloved work, her Art? Never." Poor, dear, little woman. She little knows her own heart, wise in her generation is Lindsey.

My own sex distresses me dreadfully, at times. They are so vague, so feminine. Here, one day, and we adjourned to a nearby hotel and had a jolly time. I felt that Aunt Cecilia is not going to want that studio she has yearned for so many years—and UNROMANTIC HYGIENE—6.

Corsets

Should a girl begin to wear corsets at, say, 18 or thereabout, for the purpose of molding her figure and keeping her from growing ungainly? Yes, says Mrs. Camp. No, says science, experience and common sense, for nowadays a great many young women have found that a youthful figure is well preserved without corsets, and a great many others have unfortunately found that corsets do not mold or preserve the figure but rather tend to produce the very shape they seek to prevent. Sometimes women ask why it is, then, that women of the peasant class look like bugs tied in the middle after a few years without corsets, whereas—but right here we have to remind them that the most beauteous women in the world are our idle frivolous American women—and for baggy figures, can you beat them?

The temporary effect of corsets is increase of intra-abdominal tension, a sense of security, a better circulation, and everything. But the permanent effect soon develops, and that is atrophy or weakening of the muscles whose function the corset has taken up, the encroachment of stoutness or flabbiness, the accumulation of masses or rolls of slacker tissue, superfluous fat, poor circulation, and a loss of that feeling of vim and vigor which goes with proper muscular development and is commonly called pep.

One of the most striking features of the harm done by corsets manifests itself through the instrumentality of the circulation in the form of the painful difficulties suffered by so many young women. Women, please, in women's colleges have found that these troubles may be prevented or cured in a great many cases merely by the practice of simple abdominal breathing exercises—and corsets of course embarrass or prevent abdominal breathing.

Young women who desire to attain not only the most perfect possible appearance but also the best possible health will simply save themselves the cost and nuisance of corsets and by reasonable physical training, develop their own muscles to support the body. Even fashion approves the so-called corsetless figure today.

RECIPES FOR A DAY

Italian Spaghetti—One quart tomato juice, half box spaghetti, half pound hamburger steak, two onions, one green pepper, one cup cheese cut into small bits, salt, cayenne pepper and bay leaf, one tablespoon margarine or butter.

Melt margarine in large skillet, fry onion, pepper and hamburger steak until quite done and browned (not too much), add cheese and melt, mixing thoroughly. Into this pour tomato juice and cheese mixture is thoroughly blended. Season with salt and pepper rather highly and drop in two whole bay leaves. Have spaghetti ready cooked, putting it time for a boy to go in swimming. I mean how early in the season is it all right for a boy to go swimming? (E. D.)

ANSWER—If he were my boy, Eugene, he could go in swimming as early or as late in the season as he pleased, and the earlier and later he should go in the better I'd be pleased. I always like to see boys—yes, even girls—enjoy themselves in a wholesome, healthful, physically beneficial way.

The Laziest Man.
Dr. Brady has discovered the laziest man in North America. The fellow writes as follows:

"After glancing over your column I decided to write for a copy of the Metabolism Symphony. I will give it a good trial."

And he encloses the following items: (1) One blank envelope with no mullage on the flap; (2) one slightly used 1-cent stamp of an antique vintage, worth perhaps 25 cents to a collector, but only one cent to the Salvation Army; (3) his initials.

Oil of Sesame for Skin and Scalp.
Some time ago you recommended a skin oil or scalp oil, the oil of sesame prepared with some other ingredients. I had some prepared by the pharmacist and used it with wonderful results. But I now live in another city and have lost the formula. Please publish that formula again—I am sure many women will be glad to use it. (Mrs. A. R. C.)

ANSWER—The advantage of sesame oil (also called benne oil) is that it does not dry and clog as do almond oil, vaseline and similar cosmetics. One ounce of oil of sesame is rubbed up in a mortar with five grains of benzoin and castor oil. Three hours over a water bath, with the addition of three drops of absolute alcohol, then filtered. To apply it to the scalp (for excessive dryness of the scalp or hair) use a few drops with a medicine dropper once a day. A few drops once a day will be sufficient for the skin of face, or hands or any other portion of the skin.

No Sugar

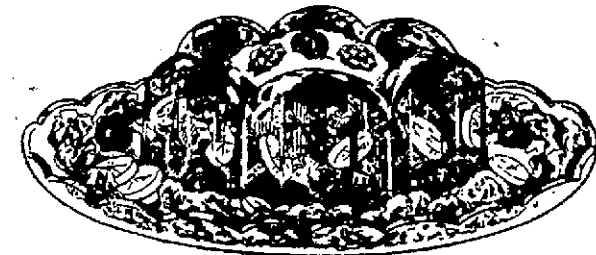

Required for Jiffy-Jell Desserts

They come ready-sweetened. They come acidulated with pure fruit acid, made from lemons or from grapes.

A bottle of liquid fruit flavor comes in each package. We crush the fruit, condense the juice and seal it in a bottle. So Jiffy-Jell is a real-fruit dainty, rich in fruit.

Simply add boiling water as directed on package, then the fruit essence from the bottle, and let cool.

If you used fresh fruit, plus a lot of sugar, you could make nothing more delicious.

Serves six—at trifling cost

One package of Jiffy-Jell serves six in mold form, or twelve if you whip the jelly. And the fruit alone which we use in it would cost you more than the whole dessert.

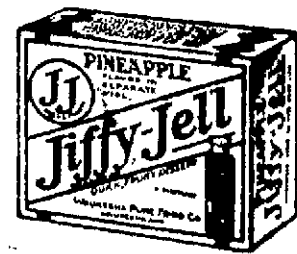

Jiffy-Jell

Real-Fruit Desserts

Ten Flavors in Glass Vials

A bottle like this in each package

Mint Lime Cherry
Raspberry Loganberry
Strawberry Pineapple
Orange Lemon Coffee

Be sure to get this package from your grocer, for Jiffy-Jell is the only dessert with these liquid fruit flavors in vials.

A petition to extend the southern city limits of Janesville to take in an area of approximately 2 1/2 square miles extending from the river east to the Beloit-Janesville trunk line highway was presented to the council last night. He mentioned that other municipal departments were furnished cars in addition to oil and gasoline. With the granting of his request, he agrees to furnish his own machine.

Clothing is also being sent, but not in quantity comparing with foodstuffs, the postoffice head reports.

In respect to meats a recent order has been received relative to the placing of a numbered meat inspection stamp on the outside wrapping of all imported meat for shipment. This is done at the postoffice.

GLASSCO DENIES ACCUSATIONS OF TWINE DEALERS

Called before twine dealers of this city yesterday at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce, R. T. Glasco, county agent, vindicated himself of any attempts to interfere with the commercial interests of the city, according to an announcement made today. The dealers acted upon reports that the county agent was seeking to bring down prices of twine by bidding Beloit against Janesville.

In reply, Mr. Glasco is reported to have said that any actions which were taken in regard to twine prices were started by a special committee of the farm bureau appointed for this purpose and that he had nothing to do with them. As a result, it is stated, the twine men will wait upon the farm bureau at its next meeting called for Thursday night at the court house.

It was explained today that the farm bureau has no intention of going into any business, but is seeking to play square with all business. Believing that prices for twine were high, the special committee arranged with dealers here to buy at 18 cents and secured lower prices from one dealer for car load lots.

It was pointed out that the medical clinic is in need of chairs and that the present council chairs can be used there when the swivels arrive.

YOUNG GIRLS NEED COMMUNITY HOME STEINER DECLARES

The problem of young girls coming to Janesville to work is a great question that demands the attention of the entire community, said J. A. Steiner, general secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., at the annual meeting of the association at the "Y" building last night.

"People will not let the young women use their parlors to meet their young men friends," he said, "as a result they are driven to the streets and dance halls to meet their friends."

Let the Boys and Girls Come Too

This is the time of year when the boys and girls can earn some money for themselves.

It is very fine indeed for the young folks to learn to handle money before they are grown.

To earn money and to spend it sensibly is the ability needed by all who would make any sort of success in the world.

Your boy or girl will never be able to save money and become well-to-do unless they can earn and spend properly.

We want the boys and girls to feel at home in our bank. Let them come.

GEORGE IHRIG LED BELOIT LIQUOR RAID

George Ihrig, at one time a Janesville billiard hall proprietor, now a federal revenue officer, was accountable for the raid at Beloit, Sunday, in which four negroes, one of them William Gordon, local barber shop porter, were arrested. The two men and the women, in custody of officers, passed through here last night en route to Madison, where federal charges were to be made against them today.

The Beloit police say Ihrig purchased liquor at 80 cents per drink at the home of one of the negroes, and later negotiated with another to buy a quart at $30. The department reserves were then called.

This day in 1899, 21 years ago the first International Peace conference met at The Hague. It was then the declared intent of the participating nations that war should be abolished as a settlement of international disputes. One of the results was the drafting of a new code of international rules for the conduct of war on a more civilized basis. All of which seem grimly and tragically humorous in the light of the descent of Germany on Belgium and North France in 1914, 15 years after the meeting of the conference.

KILLED DAYLIGHT SAVING.

The council did a commendable thing Monday evening when the resolution providing for daylight saving in Janesville was unanimously killed. Wherever it has been tried this saving has failed. It is not feasible in isolated cases. With railroads running on one schedule and all the relations of the city with the outside business world on a time at variance with daylight saving, there would be unutterable confusion. Janesville is well out of it.

IN THE DAYS OF THY YOUTH.

Chiefs of police, heads of detective squads, men who deal in the apprehension of persons guilty of crime, particularly of thefts and robberies with frequent accompanying murders, are alarmed over the youthfulness of the men concerned. An extraordinarily large percentage of the criminals involved in the most desperate as well as in petty crimes, have been from 18 to 24 years of age. They were in a majority of the cases young men who had been brought up in the ragged edge society of the greater cities. Yet there is to be noted others who have had the benefit of the best environment and advantages of education.

These men have been more desperate, more given to killing at the slightest provocation, and have participated in so large a number of bank robberies and hold-ups that means have been taken in most of the banks, jewelry stores and places which are the game of the thief, to kill the robbers before they can complete the act. These boys, insane with greed, are hard as bronze, giving no heed to either their own lives or those of others—the perfect type of the desperate criminal.

The youth who died in his unsuccessful plan to rob the mails, only a few days ago, and his companion from a Missouri city's high school, are types of this uncaged beast being raised in America.

All of which leads up to the report of the work made by the officers and committees of the Janesville Y. M. C. A. at the annual meeting. Long waiting lists of young men who want rooms, the use of the facilities by many hundreds of others, the scores of activities in which this institution is the greater part, are some of the snubbing posts in the career of the young men who have come to Janesville to make their home here and start on the trip along the highway of life. But we need to widen the sphere of influence of the organization, to be able to take more men into the building and to counteract the evil that seems to be more rampant just now than ever. This is not a religious question alone. The concrete evidence of the youthfulness of crime is a warning that something in the way of present training is wrong, horribly wrong. No one institution can supply proper environment, but all, from the parental home to the surroundings of the young man after he leaves the home to make his own way, should be more keenly alive than ever. This is the time to do things and no time to sit down with folded hands and think, or to wall over what is.

Here in Janesville, we need for the important purpose of neglecting nothing that will lead on the right highway, more and better facilities in every way. We need a larger Y. M. C. A. building. We have the organization in the Y. M. C. A. for a big, broad work. It is welcomed by the young men. It is a part of the responsibility of the older generation for the one that should succeed it in the business of the world. There should be no lagging. Influence in the right direction radiating from a thousand centers like Janesville will be a great potent force in the nation. There are plenty of other forces at work. They never sleep. Have we been teaching the wrong kind of principles to the youth and have we made criminals because we have played money as the star in the drama, against and to the exclusion of all other characters. And the young man has in many cases failed to differentiate between the man who stole his money within the law or got it by direct action.

Here are some big things—basically big—that need attention, and every dormant influence should get into action to do its share of the work. Never mind what is happening somewhere else. Janesville is the field in which our work is cut out.

Attention of the city council is called to the necessity for the passage of the traffic ordinance and correcting the evil that is growing daily from the parking of automobiles on Milwaukee street. Between the autos parked head-on, the traffic each way of the streets, and the occasional street car there is constant danger—more so than as though all the machines were on the move.

Alderman Dulin is a strong man. He can sell a $4,500 dump cart to the city on his own recommendation without investigation or question. That is going some.

Rock county's showing in the canvass for the Marne monument fund is most gratifying. It is the best of any county in the state and is the teachers and others who have so ably presented the patriotic plan of erecting on the banks of the Marne, a monument typifying America's battle for the preservation of the French republic and also as a memorial to the gallant men of the United States who stopped the German tide here at the river brink, we owe a debt of thanks and gratitude.

The Chautauque Assembly founded by the late Bishop Vincent must not be confounded with the chautauques of the camouflaged vaudeville, bell ringer, acrobat, concert, William J. Bryan lecture type, so universally prevalent in the potato bug season. The assembly of Bishop Vincent's day was an educational school, meant for a continuation of study and as an incentive for further education and investigation. Why the other brand is called "Chautauque" passeth understanding.

Having moved from Amorengen to Doorn we may expect to see a photograph of the former Kaiser, Mr. William Hohenzollern, beating carpets and putting up the stovepipe. For both these purposes history declares he has a perfect vocabulary.

The committee of 48 announces that it has a ticket for an executive committee consisting of "Prominent men." At the head is C. B. Ballard, who has just been defeated in his attempt to have the men in Outagamie county who sold Liberty bonds convicted. It may be said he is prominent. So is a sore thumb.

At the Nation's Capital

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1920 by Janesville Gazette)

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Europe is getting down to brass tacks—or rather economic sense is overcoming the sentimentalism which has kept the allied world from recognizing that until the amount of the German indemnity was fixed and ways were discovered of assisting Germany to pay the same reconstruction would be held back indefinitely.

That is the interpretation which our officials put upon the latest conferences between the allied premiers prior to the conference with the Germans at Spa. But it must be said at the outset that whatever views are expressed at the treasury department where the writer made several inquiries today concerning the momentous decisions being made in the European conferences are based entirely upon a reading of the morning newspapers. Significantly and indeed regretfully the United States government doesn't know a thing about what is going on in those important financial conferences which indirectly relate to the American indebtedness. Thus making the value of its bond and securities and the opportunities for foreign trade.

Treasury officials said it was an unfortunate confirmation of what they had been saying right along, namely, that Europe was being compelled to settle the world's financial affairs without having the benefit of America's advice or suggestions. "While it is true," said one of the treasury officials, "that the United States is making a settlement when it is made, we will hardly be able to raise much of a clamor when indeed we rejected the opportunity that was offered us to become a member of the league of nations and be represented in these important conferences."

To be sure our officials take with a grain of salt some of the cablegrams which imply that a new principle of payment of interrelated war debts is to be introduced. For instance one press dispatch declares that France will not be obliged to pay England what she owes the latter until the Germans make their payments on the war indemnity. This might conceivably be extended to apply to American indebtedness. But making the United States wait for German payments before England or France pay us.

But treasury officials say this is absurd. They declare that there is absolutely no relationship between reparation and war indebtedness. They recognize that payments of German reparation money might accelerate the payment of interrelated debts and insist that reparation money was never intended to pay the bills of the war itself, but rather to rehabilitate France and Belgium and England and assist in the domestic situation of each to the extent therefore that Germany's money helps France internally. It will improve the whole world situation though it is hard to see how it can be much improved in respect of France until the latter ceases issuing so much paper money and begins to make her budget balance. Incidentally some of the talk of having American investors absorb German indemnity bonds which are to be issued with the reparation money as security is pronounced impractical here. America, it is asserted, cannot absorb any such bonds as she hasn't the money.

Broadly speaking, there is the utmost satisfaction here that the allies are endeavoring to agree among themselves before they approach the Germans at the Spa conference. It is felt that the allied premiers enter the conference with a shared attitude toward Germany. Fully a year has had to pass unfortunately before the allies have been brought around to a realization of the correctness of the viewpoint expressed by President Wilson and his financial advisers at the Paris peace conference, namely that the sooner a definite sum was fixed for the Germans to pay and the sooner arrangements were made to help Germany earn the money to pay her debts the quicker the world would get back on its feet.

Three factors have prevented Europe from doing twelve months ago what she is accomplishing today. First, Prime Minister Lloyd George had made an election promise to the British that Germany would repay England for her whole war cost. This raised high hopes in England and kept Lloyd George in power. This election promise is probably the most famous in all history and was vaguely referred to by President Wilson in his conference with the senate foreign relations committee. The publication of the sensational book by J. M. Keynes, British financial adviser, who revealed the secrets of the Paris conference, has had a tremendous effect on English public opinion, which realizes now that the indecency of the indemnity question has kept and would keep Germany from beginning to earn the money to pay her bills. The allies know they must accept much smaller indemnity than they advertised they would collect.

Second, France was another barrier—or rather Premier Clemenceau, who shared the view of a multitude of Frenchmen that Germany should promptly rehabilitate France before any money was paid to her. Clemenceau's view was not economics is spoken of by American officials as one of the lamentable obstacles to an earlier agreement on the indemnity question.

Third, the United States got tangled up in party politics and Europe waited hopefully for the ratification of the peace treaty, and America's entrance into the league of nations.

All factors have now been removed except one. England is ready to agree to a fixed sum for the Germans to pay and a method of financing the Germans. France and Italy are in accord with the British viewpoint.

The United States alone is outside the conference and this country holds ten billion dollars of European obligations. But Europe has decided that she can wait no longer. If America suffers as a result of the settlement, that is her lookout. Europe has had enough of election promises and tangles in the case of England. She doesn't expect a definite policy from America until after our presidential election—certainly not till next March. Unquestionably she will advise the United States of what is done—but thus far not a syllable of official information has come for the good reason that America has nobody on the inside of the conferences and until the peace treaty is ratified the United States government will continue to be on the outside.

JUST FOLKS

THE REAL VIRTUES.

Man is not bound by law or rule
To win the favor of the throng;
He is not taught in any school
That honor truly comes from strong.
A willing hand and kindly heart,
A voice that seems to tell a lie,
Are virtues which all folk will prize
And all religions glorify in.

There is on earth no chosen few,
No happier here than here,
As manly and as brave and true
As any king beyond the sea.
Rich men and poor and dull and wise,
Master and servant, day by day
Dream of the self-same Paradise
And for the self-same mercy pray.

Riches and fame are not the things
Which truly mark a man's success.
Despite the joy which conquest brings,
The jewels and the costly dress,
The rest of manhood deeper goes.
One may have served a humble plan,
And missed the pomp which glory knows,
But still have been no less a man.

He is not only great who hears
The plaudits of the fickle throng,
And none deserves another's enmity
For merely the sake of strong.
For he who keeps his faith in God
Is honest, kind of heart and true,
Though forced in humbleness to plod,
Does all the things that men should do.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

THE REASON.
I've discovered why the poet
(Or the orator)
Carries such a crop of foliage on his dome;
Why his cranium reminds us
Of the chieftain of a tribe
Who is enlightened at the sight of brush and comb.

It is not a brain protector;
It is not a mark of culture or of grace—
As a source of inspiration
It is never worth a cent—
And it isn't worth to beautify the face.

There are many explanations
Offered by our learned men;
And the most of them are very good ones,
BUT—
When a thick and wavy thatch
Adorns the wielder of the pen,
It's because he can't wait to have it cut!
—L. V. G. Hannington.

NOT CURIOUS.
I do not want to go to Mars
Or any of the other stars.
I am not curious to know
What sort of people Mars may grow,
Or whether it is full of cheese,
Or chalk, or salt, or manganese.
The Martians can jump off the dock
For all of me. I take my stock
In signal, rocket or balloon
To get word from the stars or moon.
Such things I cannot entertain.
I am satisfied, flyover brain.
I have to this day been wearing them
To cope with troubles on this earth.
If Mars has any on the shelf,
I'll let it keep them to itself.

A New York commissioner advocates a thirty-day boycott on candy to bring down the price of sugar. But couldn't we do it by wearing overalls? There is no reason for wearing them for that as there is in wearing them to bring down the price of cotton.

Prices are not as high as they might be, at that. I got a real nice piece of steak with French fried potatoes yesterday for $3.60.

DIASTIC CRISIS.
(From the Waikanae Sun.)

The high school seniors last evening presented their play, "Nothing But the Truth." The criticism or review of the annual play could not be given today because the "Sun" this year was not extended the usual courtesies by being given reserved seats for its reporters.

A California man was married twenty-four times and is now going to St. Quentin prison. In a way of speaking, he has led more or less of a happy life.

Diogenes lived in a tub, and is believed to be the only man in history who had a perfectly satisfactory landlord.

Washington gives out six reasons why prices will go still higher. But the real first reason is that somebody wants the money, and the other five reasons don't count.

There are more second-hand dress suits on the market now than ever before in the history of the city. The second-hand shops are literally cluttered with them. The reason is that the head waiters have nearly all lost their jobs.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

May 18, 1880.—William Clark was hurt yesterday afternoon as he was riding along on a wagon and fell under the wheels. He was taking a load of manure from Graham's hotel to the Forest Park Improvement company. Howe brothers, proprietors of the Rock River Cotton company, have decided a ponded engine and boiler to be placed in the new addition to their North River street factory.

Howe brothers, proprietors of the Rock River Cotton company, have decided a ponded engine and boiler to be placed in the new addition to their North River street factory.

A City of the Future

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Zion City, Ill. May 18.—This little town of 40 miles from Chicago may fairly be taken as a sample of the future of America. While the nation at large has made only a beginning in the conquest of vice by abolishing alcohol, Zion has made a beginning by making a few vague threats against tobacco, Zion City, ever since its foundation has provided for the only tobacco and liquor, but also pool rooms, movies and various other devices which tend to distract the mind from the righteous and the salvation. As Zion is, so are the proud cities of Chicago and New York to become Zion City may fairly be taken as a sample of the future of America.

Dowie Founded City

Most of us, who are 30 years old or more, remember the days when John Alexander Dowie founded Zion City. In 1893 he led the hosts of his faith to New York to regenerate the fallen city. In 1896 Dowie was suspended from the church for his faith. He was charged with misuse of investments, tyranny, polygamous tendencies, and some other things. Since then the public has heard of him comparatively little of Zion City, but it still lives and thrives under the leadership of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, who has succeeded to the post of general overseer of Zion. He is regarded as an excellent business man and a powerful exhorter with a special gift for religious revival. He has a large place goods, electrical supplies, office milling and baking supplies, and candy. At the last census it had a population of nearly five thousand.

Good Morals and Bad Roads

The moral perfection of Zion City is generally admitted and admired. But it is certainly a physical perfection which has recently brought it into conflict with many of its neighbors. The imperfection is the road which runs through the city. It is a part of the road from Chicago to Milwaukee, which is an excellent road everywhere except along this stretch through the town of the Golden Rule. There it is as the roads of a century ago, full of holes and deep and treacherous mud holes.

A year ago the general wrath of the motorists came to a head in the Illinois state legislature in the form of a resolution introduced by Mr. Shurtliff calling for an investigation of Wilbur Glenn Voliva and the Catholic Holy Church. On April 22 of this year, the Illinois supreme court decided that such an investigation was illegal, and this was regarded by the Zionists as a great victory over the devil.

Licked the Legislature
The Saturday afternoon after this triumph over the legislature was a great celebration. There was a parade through the streets with much singing and shouting. The parade was led by the Zionists, and the yellow and white flags of the Zionists were everywhere. The last celebration of the Zionists is also the occasion for a little religious revival. There are rumors now that Voliva has triumphed over Satan and Mr. Shurtliff, he will improve the roads just to show the devil that he is not invincible. It is even said he has threatened, when the investigation seemed inevitable, that he would burn the expense of being investigated.

ASK US

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information should send a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. Why doesn't the postoffice redeem postage stamps—for cash?
A. E. R. Adhesive postage stamps are not redeemed in cash because there is no authority in law for so doing. It is a measure of protection against the use of stamps for remnants, which use is contrary to the interests of the postal service, since it diverts the postal revenue from its proper channel, causing the mailing postoffice to do the work while the selling postoffice gets the revenue. Another objection to redemption is that it would afford opportunity for postoffice burglars to realize upon their plunder.

Q. Who do bananas come from and how do they grow?
A. M. W. Bananas are imported chiefly from the West Indies and Central America. Although some are produced in Hawaii, California, and Florida. The banana plant is a great perennial herb. It grows from 10 to 20 feet tall and bears a bunch of fruit, after which the stalk dies, or becomes weak. In the meantime suckers have arisen from the root and taken the place of the old plant in their turn. A strong sprout should be kept when 12 to 18 months old.

Q. Will you please tell me whether the industry of artillery had the highest percentages of casualties in the World war?
J. C. F. Out of each 1,000 men enlisted in infantry service, 49 were killed or died of wounds; infantry officers 55 out of each 1,000 were killed; heavy artillery 55 out of each 1,000 were killed; light artillery 55 out of each 1,000 were killed.

Q. What is the death rate for babies in India?
A. S. A. The infant death rate for India is more than twice as high as that of England. Almost 2,000,000 children die in India every year, and at least half of these deaths are preventable. A great effort is being made to help these infants in the care of children since many of these deaths can be laid at the door of ignorance and poverty.

Q. Who are Druses?
C. H. Druses are people of mixed origin who inhabit a district in Syria. Their religion is fundamentally Arabian, but they have adopted the teachings of the Moslem law, the Christian Gospels, and the Sufi legends with the idea of the belief in the transmigration of souls with constant advancement and purification. Their teachings enjoin abstinence from wine and meat, and the wearing of white robes, and polygamy is unknown among them. There are a few hundred of this sect in the United States.

Q. Has the Yuma project been a success?
C. B. M. A work on the reclamation of the Yuma mesa in Arizona began in 1905, and war for irrigation was first available in June of 1912. The total cost of this work up to December, 1919, was $9,000,000, while the total cost of the project has been $20,473,583. This shows that in less than seven years the Yuma project has more than paid for itself.

Q. How did the crop value in the year 1919 compare with the year 1918?
A. The crop value in the year 1919 was close to $150, probably leading all other sections in the United States by a very wide margin.

Q. How are the batting averages of baseball players figured?
M. E. A. To determine batting averages, divide the total times at bat into the total number of hits. For example, where the remaining fraction is one-half or over, a point is added to the average.

Q. Next I knockin' a home run with my bases full, I'll bet the greatest sensation is playin' a snare drum on the northwest corner of a circus bandwagon, and Finky Herr, 'tday, 'Th' trouble with overalls is that they slip off a slink shirt,' complains the Lark.

Voice of the People

Editor Gazette. I noted an article in "Voice of the People" department Gazette regarding children skating on the sidewalk. In several ways it is a bad thing. I would suggest why wouldn't it be good idea to construct a cement sidewalk, say 15 or 20 feet wide, the entire length of the new high school grounds, on the river side? This would make an ideal skating rink. It would cost some money, but what of that?

Think of the fun we would have.
